

British Airways resuming its London to Sydney service.

From 27 March 2022, British Airways will once again be operating daily flights between these two great cities via Singapore. Whether visiting friends or family, starting a new term at university or school, or simply hoping to discover London's amazing shopping districts, world-class art galleries or the natural beauty of its many parks, you can fly in comfort with British Airways.

Now's the perfect time to book a trip

With British Airways' flexible booking options, you can book now and change later. This includes changing booking dates, the destination or cancelling in exchange for a future travel voucher now valid for travel until 30 September 2023. T&Cs apply. For details, visit ba.com/confidence.

You can also save time and money for your trip, visit British Airways' ba.com/covid-19 hub where you will find the entry requirements for your destination, as well as several testing options with discounts and details of British Airways' flexible booking policy.

Safety first, and always

For your peace of mind, British Airways offer you the option of using travel health app, VeriFLY. The app can check you meet the entry requirements of your destination by certifying test certificates and verifying travel documentation.

British Airways have also partnered with Dettol, offering you a range of Dettol products in the air and on the ground at London Heathrow. What's more, each of British Airways' aircraft is completely cleaned from nose to tail, every day. So you can feel safe and protected every step of the way.
